Use Melbourne Water land
to benefit your community

Our Space Your Place

Help turn Melbourne Water land into active community spaces for everyone to enjoy

As Melbourne continues to grow, the need for access to open outdoor areas and green spaces grows too.

Melbourne Water owns 33,000 hectares of land across greater Melbourne. This land is essential in supporting our city's water operation – but we want it to do more.

We want our land to benefit the local community by creating safe, healthy, beautiful and more connected spaces. Turn our space into your place.

Community Land Start Up Package – Merlynston Creek Park, Coburg North

We want you, the community, to gather your ideas and apply to use Melbourne Water land at Merlynston Creek Park in Coburg North, Moreland (see location overleaf). If you apply, your project will be in the running for a Community Land Start-Up Package.

The Community Land Start Up package will help you achieve your vision and deliver your project with:

- a $1,000 contribution towards costs of getting your project up and running,
- up to a two year licence for you to use our land; and
- a planning workshop to help bring your application to life;

Who can apply?

We invite anyone with a project that will benefit the wider community to apply.

Are you in a nature, cultural, sporting, art, music, or theatre group? Are you in a school or kinder?

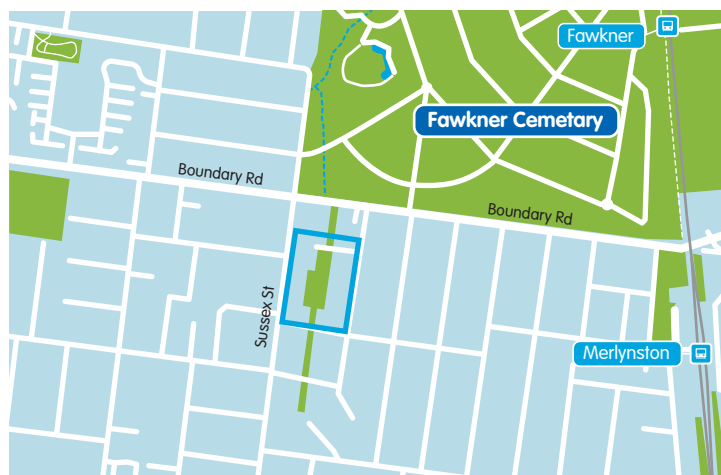

Do you want a place for growing food, outdoor classes, practicing skills, or holding performances or art installations and more?

Visit <https://yoursay.melbournewater.com.au/our-space-your-place> to be inspired, and apply.

Applications open on Monday 19 March 2018.
